

Reader's Guide

NATIVE AMERICAN HERITAGE MONTH BOOKTALKS

Just Like Grandma by Kim Rogers

Illustrated by Julie Flett

Recommended for ages 4-8

Becca's grandma can do so many cool things and Becca wants to be just like her. This heartwarming book has charming and delightful illustrations, great for multigenerational families and those looking for stories to encourage their child's confidence in learning new skills.

Find the book in our catalog here: <https://tinyurl.com/yc3ayj8v>

More to Explore

Learn about Kim Rogers

<https://www.kimrogerswriter.com/about-me>

Learn about Julie Flett

<https://www.julieflett.com/>

Heartdrum Educator Guide

<https://tinyurl.com/2p8p573k>

Discussion Questions

- Grandma teaches Becca about beading, painting, and dancing. What skills have you learned from family members or other adults in your life?
- Becca teaches Grandma how to play basketball. What are some things you can teach others?
- Who is your adult role model? Why do you admire them and want to be like them?
- When Becca and Grandma are learning new skills, Grandpa encourages and supports them with the food he makes. What can you do to show support for someone else?

Read-Alikes

Berry Song written and illustrated by Michaela Goade

<https://tinyurl.com/37tuhxd9>

A Day with Yayah written by Nicola Campbell and illustrated by Julie Flett

<https://tinyurl.com/48f6cfea>

Grandma's Tipi: A Present Day Lakota Story written and illustrated by S.D. Nelson

<https://tinyurl.com/43cev299>